

HOOKWORM FIGHT MAKES PROGRESS

Reports of Rockefeller Commission Show What Is Being Accomplished.

Washington, March 16.—Excellent results are being accomplished in the fight being waged in the South against the hookworm infection, according to two reports from the commission established by a donation of $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller for the eradication of the disease. One of these reports, by Dr. C. W. Stiles, scientific secretary of the commission, is now in press and has not been made public. It is known, however, that it deals with what has been accomplished in a sanitary way throughout the South toward wiping out the infection, and Dr. Stiles is known to be of the opinion that, with the assistance of the various State boards of health, the work has been proceeding favorably. Scientific treatment, he believes, is getting the upper hand in the fight on the hookworm.

The report of Wickliffe Rose, administrative secretary of the commission, which has just been made public, declares that the largest result achieved during the past year does not appear in the tables shown in the report. "This result," he says, is the "public sentiment created." "The people," he says, "are being led to seek examination and treatment by the cooperation of public-spirited, influential citizens. The inspectors, on going into a new community, frequently have the cooperation of a group of leading citizens."

In speaking of the way in which the work is being carried on, he tells how the geographic distribution of the infection and the degree of infection is determined by personal inspection by the various State directors of public health, by reports from local physicians and by laboratory examinations in addition to the nine Southern States, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia, in which the fight has been organized, the secretary reports that "infection has been demonstrated in Florida, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, California and Nevada. It is reported as heavy and producing great economic loss in the mines of California."

"In getting the cure," the report adds, "the State director and his staff follow three lines: Enlisting the physicians in the accomplishment of the task; getting the people to seek examination and treatment, if needed, for themselves and their neighbors; and providing treatment for the infected."

By means of the printed page, by lectures and through the schools, the people, he says, are being taught what

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Raised Me From the Grave"—Mrs. Taylor

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicines. If anyone had offered me $100.00 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'"

MRS. THOMAS TAYLOR,
Blum, Tex.

Nervous exhaustion is a common occurrence of modern life. The wear and tear on the nervous system is greater now than at any time since the world began. For sleeplessness, poor appetite and that "run down" feeling, nothing is so good as hookworm means and how to fight it. "The final task in this work," he declares, "is to stamp out hookworm infection by putting a stop to soil pollution. The work is one of education, and will require years for its accomplishment."

Infection Widespread.
Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—According to a report compiled by the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, 19 to 30 per cent. of the school children in thirty-nine Georgia counties have hookworm, 26 to 40 per cent. in forty-eight counties are afflicted, and 1 to 20 per cent. in twenty counties.

With the exception of the Carolinas, the infection seems to be greater in Georgia than in any Southern State. Examinations of school children are being made by the commission through the State boards of health in the following States: Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and North and South Carolina.

In Georgia 17,775 children have already been examined and about 6,000 treated. Literature is being scattered throughout the South showing how to cure and combat the infection, which is done personally through sanitation.

ration of my present term. This conclusion has not been reached without many pang of regret. My association with public officials and the people of Richmond generally has been extremely pleasant and agreeable, and I sever my relations with the employees of the office with sincere regret. No other department, here or elsewhere, can show more competent or willing workers. I have had the most cordial and gratifying assurances of support from every officer of the state should I desire to retain the office, and I hardly think any one could doubt the certainty of my election in that event, but I feel that business interests and domestic considerations should govern my action in the matter."

Natural selection of his already been aroused as to his successor. Many people think that a lively fight is likely to ensue before the next Legislature. The new Auditor will be chosen in a joint Democratic caucus of the two houses of the General Assembly, and the action of the caucus will be ratified in joint session. The names of several men are suggested, but, of course, no one as yet has made any move toward a candidacy for the office, which is one of the most important and highly salaried under the State government.

What are you doing to give your children sound and healthy teeth? Out of 11,374 children inspected by the Medical Inspector in the schools of Toronto nearly 3,000 cases of physical defects were found. Of these 2,027 were credited to decayed and imperfectly formed teeth. Sound teeth and good bones come from thoroughly chewing a food that is rich in the phosphates. You can't build them with mushy porridges, soggy pastries or sweetmeats. Shredded Whole Wheat contains all the necessary phosphates in a digestible form. You HAVE to chew the school, but thought their actions in supplying the school in poor taste.

As to E. A. Catlin, Mr. Davis said that he enjoyed the sole privilege of placing the insurance on the school property and buildings. He thought Mr. Catlin a high and honorable man. As in the case of Messrs. Poindexter and Hutzler, however, he thought Mr. Catlin should not place this insurance, being a member of the administration committee of the school.

Regarding the policy of mixing the good with the bad boys at Laurel, Mr. Davis thought the bad would more quickly leave the good than the good the bad. He doubted the reformation of many inmates of those who had been in the school. He had heard of boy inmates being taught the art of pocket-picking and even safe-cracking. He believed that the good should be carefully segregated from the bad.

Mr. Hutzler testified.

When Mr. Hutzler was placed upon the stand he said: "I deny emphatically and unequivocally that I ever ordered the superintendent to purchase dry goods from A. Hutzler's Sons. I have never given Mr. Davis any orders," continued he, "and Mr. Davis cannot show any evidence, either by letter or witness, that I ever gave him an order or instruction except following a conference of the board."

Mr. Hutzler agreed with Mr. Davis that it was bad as a policy to have institutions purchase from officers. He thought, however, that when an institution particularly a benevolent institution, could profit by purchasing from its officers, it was a pity it could not do so.

Mr. Hutzler stated upon the stand that the beginning of "friction" between himself and Mr. Davis had its origin as far back as March 27, 1909. Mr. Davis had at this time been with the institution but five months, when Mr. Hutzler began to realize his incompetency.

Was Excitable.

During the afternoon session many witnesses were called. Mr. Hutzler resumed the stand. In replying to an inquiry from Dr. Denny, who presided over the court, as to what Mr. Davis meant by "friction," he had considerable friction between himself and the president of the board (Mr. Hutzler), witness replied that he had on several occasions found it necessary to offer suggestions to Mr. Davis, which suggestions were received in ill spirit. Mr. Davis was a very excitable man.

Mr. Hutzler went on to explain how he had "friction" with former superintendents. How under the administration of Superintendent Cringan he had found a boy named Lorenzo Leckey wearing two balls and chains.

Mr. Hutzler attributed the superintendent to have the balls and chains removed. His commands were only partially carried out. When he next visited the school Leckey was still wearing one ball and chain. Mr. Hutzler had the matter referred to the board of governors, which had considerable friction between himself and the president of the board (Mr. Hutzler), witness replied that he had on several occasions found it necessary to offer suggestions to Mr. Davis, which suggestions were received in ill spirit. Mr. Davis was a very excitable man.
